Welcome to Randall Brothers Revised 1999 Edition special order moulding catalog. In it you will find profiles that reflect classical architecture with timeless appeal and enduring value. The 90's have shown a tremendous revival in architectural millwork detail, which has demanded the need for a moulding book that would show profiles appropriate to be used in a variety of applications such as: grand estate homes, historic restoration, finer home construction, and decorative renovation. The patterns were developed to meet the discriminating tastes of Atlanta's renowned architects, interior designers, master builders and quality minded remodelers. Architectural profile details come from a variety of influences inspired by the current renaissance in classicism. Many patterns were designed specifically for the estate homes in the Buckhead residential area and represent a cooperative effort with some of Atlanta's finest architects. The Buckhead Street names were used to reflect the rich heritage of Classical architecture in the area. Though respecting the architectural traditions of the past, there are also some innovative new patterns that use the best of late twentieth century millwork technology to create the appearance of elaborate ornamentation while reducing the cost of manufacturing and make installation simpler for today's high-tech craftsman. Look through the catalog and you will see designs that can be used in a multitude of applications. This truly masterful collection includes period mouldings for Georgian entrances and architraves, authentic Williamsburg casings and chair rails, Victorian casings, Greek Revival pilaster details and Renaissance interior cornices. Two of the unique features of the catalog are the assembly details for built-up cornices and multi-piece crowns and the cross-section views for raised paneled rooms and wainscoting. Also notice that many of the mouldings have more than one application. As an example, the Rembrandt series can be used as a casing with back band or as a crown apron or as a two-pieced chair rail or as a baseboard. Panel moulds can be applied as base caps or conversely base caps may be used as a panel moulds. Some casings can be applied as chair rails, mantle moulds, crown aprons or even one-piece baseboards. Used in conjunction with Randall Brother's standard RB stock patterns, the design possibilities are endless. Randall Brothers has been in the millwork business longer than anyone in the metropolitan area, and has a treasury of moulding profiles available for your custom millwork needs. If you can't find a pattern suitable for a unique application, let us know, our knife grinding charges are very reasonable, and we would be glad to produce your custom moulding designed to your specifications. Mouldings are typically produced in solid or finger-joint poplar for paint grade applications. Stain grade hardwoods are available such as oak, mahogany, cherry, maple, birch, ash, walnut and other exotic species. Softwoods are available including white pine, southern yellow pine, clear cedar and clearheart redwood. Exteriors are recommended in cedar, redwood or yellow pine. Custom shop drawings are available for some appropriate large projects, after order placement, to verify details. Typical lead times for the 9800 series and 9900 series special order patterns vary from two to four weeks. See attached stock list for patterns ready to ship. Please call us to verify current pricing and availability.
